[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 4.

French Troops Disbanding.

BORDEAUX, March 3.—The Government has ordered the immediate return of the Mobilized National Guard to their homes.

A Restatement of the Terms of Peace.

VERSAILLES, March 3.—A Herald cable special says the preliminaries of peace arranged by Bismarck and other plenipotentiaries with Thiers and Favre are as follows:

Article one specifies the line of demarkation.

Second—France shall pay Germany four milliards of francs—one milliard, at least, in 1871, and all the rest in the space of three years from the time of ratification.

Third—The evacuation to commence on the ratification of the treaty by the Assembly; that the German troops will then immediately quit Paris and the left bank of the Seine—also the departments of Cher, Indre et Loire and Seine Inferieur. French troops will remain behind the Loire till the signing of a definite treaty of peace, excepting those of Paris, where the Government is not to have exceeding 40,000 troops. Germans to evacuate the right bank of the Seine gradually, after the signing of a definite treaty and the payment of half a milliard of francs. After the payment of two milliards, the Germans will only keep 40,000 troops in France; but if sufficient money guarantee be given, the Germans will evacuate completely at once; otherwise, the three milliards will carry interest at 5 per cent. from the ratification of the treaty.

Fourth—German troops to make no further requisitions, and the French Government will find food for the army of occupation in ceded departments. Favorable arrangements will be made with the inhabitants, and time given to them to move if they please, and that no obstacle will be placed in the way of immigration.

Article fifth not mentioned.

Sixth—Prisoners to be immediately liberated on the ratification of the treaty.

Seventh—The treaty to be definitely signed at Brussels immediately after ratification.

Eighth—After the ratification, the management of the departments occupied will be handed over to French officers, subject to German commanders, and in the interest of German troops.

Ninth—It will be understood that the Germans have no authority over departments not occupied by them.

A Versailles special says the Germans evacuated to-day, and that Prince Frederick Charles retired immediately behind the Seine.

The German Emperor Announces Peace.

BERLIN, March 3.—The Empress has received the following dispatch from the Emperor:

VERSAILLES, March 3.—I have just ratified the conditions of peace which the Bordeaux Assembly accepted. Thus far the work is complete, which was through seven months of battle to be achieved. Thanks to the valor, devotion and endurance of our incomparable army, and the sacrifices of the whole Fatherland. The Lord of Hosts has everywhere visibly blessed our enterprises, and by his mercy permitted an honorable peace. To Him be honor—to the Fatherland, thanks.

[Signed] WILHELM.

Affairs at Rome.

ROME, March 2, via BORDEAUX.—The Bavarian Minister here has provisionally assumed the functions of German Ambassador to the Holy See, in place of Count Von Arnim, who has been removed hence to Paris.

A Herald cable from Rome says the report that the Pope is to leave the Vatican is not true, if violence is not imminent. The question was discussed with the Pope by Antonelli, at the instigation of the Jesuits; but the Pope has decided to remain, cheerfully; because, if he leaves the Vatican, the Italian Government will confiscate it. The Pope is suffering in weak health, and fears that if he departed the people would say Papacy was discomfited.

London Dispatches.

LONDON, March 3.—England's mediation has been accepted by both parties in the dispute between Egypt and Spain.

There was another terrible colliery explosion at Victoria yesterday. The dead number twenty.

In the House of Commons Gladstone was ill and retired early.

Dilke gave notice of a resolution regretting the Government's assent to a conference on the conditions dictated by Gortschakoff.

Germans Evacuate Paris.

LONDON, March 3.—The evacuation of Paris terminates at 11 o'clock Friday morning, as agreed by the cartel. The Mobiles and National Guards are disbanded. The trenches around town are being filled up.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Texas Railroad Bill—Other Matters in Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Texas Railroad Bill, which has passed both Houses of Congress, and now awaits the President's signature, differs but a trifle from the Southern Pacific Railroad Bill lately passed by the House. The land grants are upon similar terms as those to the main line, and the right of way conceded to the New Orleans, Baton Rouge and Vicksburg road, which must be open from New Orleans to Marshall, Texas, within five years, and to the Southern Pacific Railroad, of California, from Fort Yuma, via Los Angeles, to a point at or near Tahecchapah.

In the Senate this afternoon Rice moved to lay the report of the Conference Committee on the South Pacific Railroad on the table, with a view to the appointment of a new Conference Committee, so as to secure the branch connection through Arkansas via Dallas and Fulton to Cairo. He did not propose to defeat the bill, but would insist on the right of the people of Arkansas to this connection with the trunk.

McDonald supported the position of Rice, and advocated the claims of his constituents for the Arkansas branch.

Rice's motion was rejected.

The conference report in relation to the Cincinnati and New York bridge matter was discussed at length, and finally concurred in. Ayes, 33; nays, 20.

Closing Hours of the Forty-first Congress.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—In the Senate, the question of the passage of the law to repeal the duty on coal was deferred until a few minutes of 5 o'clock.

The Senate took a recess till 10:50 A. M.

The Senate is still considering the Omnibus Appropriation bill.

Mr. Fenton moved an appropriation of $30,000 for a light house at Fairhaven, N. Y. Agreed to.

An appropriation for public buildings at Hartford, Conn., was passed.

Trumbull offered an amendment looking to a reform of the civil service. It authorizes the President to prescribe such regulations in the civil service of the United States as will best promote its efficiency. Agreed to.

During the consideration of the bill, the House substitute for the Senate bill relating to trades-marks, and protecting manufacturers of watches from fraudulent foreign imitations, passed.

Pomeroy moved, as an amendment to sundry civil appropriation bills, to repeal the duty on coal. Objection being made that the amendment was of the nature of a bill raising the revenue, it could not be received. He asked consent to withdraw it, but Edmunds objected. A motion to lay it on the table was lost.

Pomeroy then withdrew it, when Trumbull gave notice, that as soon as the pending bill was disposed of, he would move to take up the House Joint Resolution on the subject. The bill passed.

Trumbull then moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the House Joint Resolution repealing the duty on coal. Agreed to.

Considerable discussion ensued. A motion was made for an executive session, and to take up primitive bills for the purpose of consuming time and defeating the bill.

Trumbull protested against the course of the opponents of repeal, and appealed to its friends to stand by the measure. The debate continued.

At 11:40 Hamlin moved that they go into Executive session. Not agreed to.

Morton and Thurman, according to previous appointment, reported that having waited upon the President, the Executive had no further communication to make.

Pending the discussion upon Sawyer's bill, the hour of 12, fixed by law for the expiration of the session, arrived, when the Vice President declared an adjournment.

HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, March 3, Midnight.—The President, with his Private Secretary and Cabinet came to the Capitol to sign bills, and was snugly cared for in the President's room, where he had spread a fine collation. In his office, on the House side, a well known frequenter of the corridors has preempted a military commander's room, and spread canvas back ducks and cigars.

The House is impatient at the delay of the Senate, and manifests its feelings in disorder and tumult. The night session of the House continued until 5:30 A. M.

A regular storm was raised by a proposition by Garfield to adopt an amendment to the rules, which amendment was interrupted by the Democrats. It aims at giving the Republicans a majority in the next Congress, the same power that it exercised during the present Congress, through its majority of over two-thirds. They propose to amend the forty-second rule so as to provide that after the previous question is moved no motion shall be entertained except to adjourn and to lay on the table. Such motions shall not be repeated, and that after the previous question is settled, no original motion whatever shall be entertained, except a single motion to adjourn.

Eldridge, Brooks of New York, Randall and other Democrats, denounced the proposition in unmeasurable terms, amidst great excitement; Brooks vowing that Democrats would resist, even at the hazard of revolution.

Van Wyck declared that the Forty-Second Congress could adopt its own rules, and that the present Congress had found existing rules necessary to secure honest legislation.

Eldridge thanked God that there were some honest men on the Republican side of the House.

Garfield said that it was the purpose of the proposed rule to place a minority in the power of a majority.

Finally, amid much uproar, the question was taken on suspending the rules and adopting the amendment, and it was negatived by a vote of 64 to 62—not two-thirds voting in the affirmative.

Another scene occurred, when Clark of Kansas, made an attempt to get up a land grab bill, which was denounced by Randall and others as State stealing. The charge being resented by Clark, who pronounced it false, went so far that active movers in the affair shook fists at each other, but didn't come to blows.

The proposition to suspend the rules and pass the bill obtained twenty two affirmative votes.

Finally, at 4:30, the Omnibus bill came over from the Senate, with an enormous batch of amendments, which were read by Dawes, who stated that the Committee on Appropriations had read the Senate amendments, and although there were many things in them which they did not entirely approve, he thought that on the whole the best thing the House could do was to concur in them all, rather than send them to a Conference Committee. He therefore moved to concur in all the Senate amendments.

Lawrence endorsed the statement of Dawes and said that the bill, as it came from the Senate, was an improvement on the original bill from the House. The amendments were concurred in, and the House, at 5:20 A. M., took a recess till 10 o'clock A. M., having first resolved that no business should be in order during the rest of the session, except to secure from the President and Senate to enroll bills, and in reference to general appropriation bills.

The House reconvened at 10 o'clock and the Speaker presented several Executive communications—among others a message from the President vetoing a House bill, which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

Members generally wore an expression of weariness, consequent on a long night's session and want of rest. After five minutes spent in the presentation of Executive messages, the House took a further recess till 11 o'clock, meanwhile, members gathered in groups, holding noisy conversations over the scenes of the night's session, and preparations for the opening of the 42d Congress.

The galleries gradually filled up with spectators, and the House resumed its session at 11 A. M.

Negley called for a report of the Committee on Military Affairs on investigation into the affairs of Asylums. Laid on the table without action.

A report from the Committee on Public Expenditures, in relation to the removal of the Capital, was made by Connelly, and a minority report by Coburn. Laid on the table and ordered printed.

Unanimous consent being asked for several propositions of various kinds, Randall objected, and gave notice that he would object to everything. Business, therefore, came to a stand-still, and the buzz of conversation became general in the hall and galleries. At this time there was not a vacant seat in the galleries.

This morning Starkweather, from the Conference Committee on the bill to abolish the office of Admiral and Vice Admiral, reported to the Senate. [At this point Byard rose to a question of privilege, and offered a resolution respectfully tendering the thanks of the Senate to Hon. Schuyler Colfax, Vice President, for the eminent ability, courtesy and impartiality with which he has presided over the deliberations of that body. The resolution was entertained by unanimous consent, and adopted without objection.] The committee had not been able to agree.

Mr. Schofield moved that the House recede from its disagreement and let the bill become a law, so that the two offices [illegible] terminate as soon as vacancies occur. Pending [illegible] decision, at 11:45, a committee of the House was ordered to meet a like committee on the part of the Senate to wait upon the President and inform him that if he had no further communication to make, Congress was ready to adjourn.

Garfield, Negley and Cox, appointed as a committee of conference on the Admiral bill, resumed, and Butler, of Massachusetts, and Stevens, of New Hampshire, argued against Schofield's motion. On the vote by tellers on Schofield's motion to recede, there were in favor 110 to 42 against, the effect of which would have been to pass the bill, but as it then wanted five minutes of the hour of adjournment, the bill was defeated by the minority demanding the yeas and nays.

During the call, Garfield announced that the committee appointed for the purpose had waited on the President, and was authorized to inform Congress that he had no further communication to make to it.

The call of the roll was resumed, but before its termination, the hour of noon arrived, when the call was interrupted by the fall of the Speaker's gavel.

Suddenly the clamor of the House was hushed into perfect stillness, when the Speaker, addressing the House, declared it adjourned. As the Speaker pronounced the last word of his address and stepped down to take his place on the floor as a member of the new Congress, an expression of approval and applause broke out in the Chamber and gallery, and a clapping of hands, general and long, was sustained.

Organization of the New House.

After a short pause, McPherson, Clerk of the House, summoned the new House to order, and proceeded to call the names of members by States. The States of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Texas and California were unrepresented, elections in these States not having been held. The roll having been completed, the Clerk announced that 222 members had answered to their names, a full representation being 243.

Mr. Blair then nominated James G. Blaine, of Maine, Speaker, and Wood, George W. Morgan, of Ohio. The result was announced as follows: Whole number of votes cast 219, necessary to a choice, 110; of which James G. Blaine had 126. The Clerk thereupon declared that James G. Blaine, having received a majority of all the votes cast, was duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives of the 42d Congress.

Further Details from the National Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Both Houses, at a few minutes past 12 o'clock, proceeded to the organization of the new Congress. The President and members of his Cabinet, with his private Secretaries, occupied the President's room, near the Senate Chamber, where he signed all bills which were presented to him, excepting nine, among which were an act for the purchase of lands sold for direct tax in insurrectionary States; an act relating to telegraphic communication between the United States and foreign countries; the joint resolution relating to the rights of actual settlers upon certain lands.

The President this morning approved and signed 67 bills, including the general appropriation bills. He remained at his room some time, awaiting the organization of the two Houses, in order to save the Joint Committee the trouble of sending it to him at the Executive Mansion. He had no printed message to communicate. Several hundred bills which passed one house or the other, failed to receive concurrent action. Among the House bills which failed to receive concurrent action of the Senate, were the following: An act to revise, consolidate and amend the statutes relating to post office departments; an act to aid in the execution of the laws in Utah Territory; and the polygamy bill; an act to extend the time for the presentation of claims for bounty, under the act of July 28th, 1866; the joint resolution in relation to the contest between the people of Cuba and the Government of Spain; an act to authorize the President to accept the resignation of Judges of United States Courts; an act for the better security of agricultural grounds; an act for the protection of settlers on public lands in the United States; an act to enable honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, and their widows and orphans to acquire homesteads on public lands; an act to prevent cruelty to animals in transitu by railroad cars; an act in relation to additional bounties; a joint resolution to regulate the hours of Government workmen; an act to amend the bankruptcy act, an act increasing all pensions 20 per cent.; an act to abolish the offices of Admiral and Vice Admiral of the navy.

Nominations Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Senate went into Executive session about 5 o'clock this morning, and confirmed among others the following nominations: George A. Black, Secretary of Utah Territory; Cornelius Hedges, U. S. Marshal for the District of Montana; G. A. Bateman, of Nevada, Consul at Santiago; Rev. S. Underdunk, Consul at Cape de Verde Island.

EASTERN STATES.

Finances and the Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The World's financial article notices that the Bank of England has advanced the rates of discount a half per cent., and says the cotton markets are in a state of demoralization bordering on panic. The advance in the rate of discount is a precautionary measure, in the event of a sudden and great withdrawal of money from the London market, where it has been deposited for safety by persons on the continent of Europe during the war. The decline in price and the tendency to a panic in the cotton market in Liverpool and New York, is caused by notifications of loans to be returned by speculators, who are overloaded with cotton. There is no doubt the Bank of England has commenced a policy of contraction in its accommodations to all foreign firms and speculators, who are likely to weaken its resources of coin, and there was a more active demand for foreign bills of exchange in the New York market yesterday, owing to telegrams from firms in Europe to correspondents here for remittances to strengthen themselves against eventualities. The decline in the price of cotton within the last twenty four hours has been equal to $9,000,000.

CUBA.

The Rebellion—Defeat of the Insurgents.

HAVANA, March 3.—A number of minor engagements are reported between the Spaniards insurgents, in which the latter have been defeated. During the past fortnight in the Central Department, twelve insurgents were killed, and over 4,000 persons gave in their adhesion to the Spanish Government.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 4.—Contrary to expectation, the case of the United States against Sheriff Jackson, of Trinity county, was concluded last night at a late hour. The jury was out only seven minutes, and rendered a verdict of guilty as charged. The case will be appealed to the Supreme Court.

The steamer Sacramento, for Panama, to-day, will run on the new schedule time, stop at San Diego, and run up to Mazatlan to land freight and passengers. All the P. M. S. S. Co.'s steamers will follow this route hereafter.

Preparations are being made to receive Rudolphe, the billiardist, with eclat this evening, on his arrival from the East.

It is understood that the arrangement between the North Pacific Transportation Company and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, by which the steamers of the two lines were not to interfere with one another, has expired, and that a renewal is refused by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The steamers of the latter line will hereafter touch at San Diego every trip, and on each alternate trip run to Mazatlan. The fare has been reduced from $90 to $50 in the cabin, and $25 in the steerage, from San Francisco to Mazatlan, by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, freight in proportion.

A gentleman named Barton, from Portland, recently arrived here, made the acquaintance of King Pill, a State Prison convict, yesterday, and this morning, on arising from his bed at the hotel, found his entire wardrobe reduced to a hat. He had left his room door unlocked, and the police incline to the opinion that the property walked off in company with his newly made friend.

Two escaped colonists from Magdalena Bay have arrived here. They rowed 150 miles in an open boat, preferring the chances of drowning to starving in that earthly paradise. Their denunciations of the company's agents, through whose misrepresentations they were deluded into embarking for Lower California, are bitter in the last degree. A dispatch says 800 emigrants left New York by steamer to-day for Magdalena Bay.

The Emmet Guard of Virginia City will be welcomed on their arrival here on the 16th inst, by the Third Regiment of National Guards of California (Irish), and will be guests of the Emmet Life Guards of this city during their stay, which will be until after St. Patrick's day.

The schooner Aptos, which sailed February 17th for Aptos Landing, and left that landing on the night of the gale which did so much damage along the coast, has not since been heard from. She probably foundered with all on board. She had five or six men on board.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES.

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—On the last down trip of the steamers Orizaba and Tabor, both steamers prepared for and began a race immediately after leaving San Francisco. The Orizaba left San Francisco at 10 A. M., on the 1st, 45 minutes after the Tabor, passed her at 1:20 P. M. on the 2d. The Tabor arrived at 5 A. M. on the 3d.

SAN DIEGO, March 4.—Capt. George A. Pendleton, County Clerk, died in old San Diego last night. He was a pioneer of California, and came to this State as a Lieutenant in Col. Stevenson's regiment.

ARIZONA.

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—The Prescott (Arizona) Miner, of February 25, contains the following item. Mining news is growing better every day. Every report from the new mines exceeds the preceding one. One lode is located in claims of 200 feet. For over three miles the width of the ledge is from four to thirty feet. The ore assays from $800 to $6,000 per ton in silver. Native silver is to be seen all through the rock, and the poorest claim owners are not anxious to sell for less than from $30 to $50 per foot.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

The Fay Matter at Jacksonville.

JACKSONVILLE, March 4.—The following card from Senator Fay in relation to the Ralls difficulty, appears in one of the local papers to-day:

"CARD—In view of atrocious calumnies put afloat by interested persons, in regard to my alleged connection with a woman lately in my employ, I deem it proper to state that I deny the charges alleged against me, and court a thorough legal investigation of the affair. I therefore ask a suspension of the public judgment until the case receives the investigation which I trust it will have before the courts, and as to the result of such investigation I have no apprehension.

"[Signed] JAMES D. FAY."

V. S. Ralls and James D. Fay, the parties of the shooting affray of last Saturday, were bound over yesterday in the sum of $2,000 each to keep the peace. Ralls was arrested on a charge of an attempt to kill, and gave bonds for his appearance at the next term of Court.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Disturbances in France.

BRUSSELS, March 4.—A dispatch from Lille to the Echo du Nord reports serious disturbances at Augos, an important city in the French department of Maine et Lorraine, in which several persons were killed and wounded.

Measures for placing the Belgian army on peace footing have been carried out.

Review of German Troops.

VERSAILLES, March 4.—Emperor William reviewed the German Landwehr, Guards, artillery and Pioneers, in Bois de Boulogne, yesterday. Prince Frederick William, General Moltke and Bismarck were present. All restrictions as to persons passing into and out of Paris have been removed. The Emperor goes to Berlin Monday.

BORDEAUX, March 3.—Deputies Rochefort, Blanc, Mallon and Tridon resigned their seats, considering the session of Alsace illegal.

The German Occupation.

LONDON, March 4.—The New York Herald cable dispatch says: A letter from Paris the 3d, states that the avenues are almost deserted. There is an extraordinary scene at Arc de Triomphe. Two pieces of artillery have been placed in position. Gunners near at hand are ready to sweep every avenue radiating from the Arc; also a strong guard of infantry with arms are piled in the vicinity. Soldiers are singing from song books There is much difference in their temper; some fraternizing with blouses, and exchanging cigars and drinking wine, while others do not allow strangers near their fires. All are boasting of the conquest of Alsace and Lorraine, yet are glad the war is over, that they may get back to fatherland. No one is allowed under the Arc in Place de la Cordie. There is a strong guard of Bavarians lying on the ground in front of the gates of the Tuilleries. The Bavarians soldiers are picking immortelles from the statute of Strasburg. Frenchmen passing cried "Beware." At midnight I re-entered the lines. Large bodies of guards are stationed around the watch fires. As the Germans are to leave Paris this morning, the papers re appear. The Debate says that in spite of patriotism, Alsace, Lorraine, Metz and La Pucelle pass under the control of Germany. The French can't continue the war. The future does not belong to us, but following generations may take vengeance. We can only say three words: "Silence, Patience," the other we dare not pronounce. We have no right to decide for future generations. They can act freely and decide how to act. The Debate blames the Parisians as fickle with a feminine love of sight-seeing. They ought not to gaze on the Prussians. The ladies say the German soldiers, quartered, are very cleanly, though awkward, and vastly superior to French, and handsomer. They have been first rate customers to French shopkeepers for wines and cigars.

Another letter from a French lady says the Prussian occupation of Paris is ended. Evacuation commenced last night. It was not generally known at six in the morning. It began in regular order, with cavalry and artillery in advance. The Prussian and Bavarian infantry faced right about at 8:30. The first of the main body passed through the Arc de Triomphe with bands playing and colors flying right under the arch. Obstacles had been removed at the side of the column. General Shackeyer, commanding the Eleventh Corps, was stationed and received the salutes of men passing. Many men wore eagles on their helmets, and one regiment wore laurels. At nine o'clock the Bavarian infantry and artillery accompanied by full bands arrived. A few moments afterwards the head of the Prussian column reached the arch, marching in columns by sections. The morning had been foggy, but the sun now burst out making everything appear grand. Troops cheered loudly, and the tattered appearance of their colors proudly borne, attracted the attention of the French. Next came some dragoons, then the Eleventh regiment of Jager's Guard and Prussian artillery.

An Amiens dispatch, dated Friday, 3d, says the greatest joy at the announcement of the conclusion of peace, has been manifested at headquarters and throughout the first army corps.

The French commandant has requested the German General in command to give him arms for two companies and two cannon to preserve the public peace, as workmen are intent on making riotous demonstrations when the German troops have evacuated Paris.

No more requisitions are issued upon inhabitants and many Prussian officers decline to dine at houses upon which they are billeted unless invited by the hosts, because they are now in receipt of regular allowances.

The Emperor will not go to Stuttgart or Munich, but proceed direct to Berlin.

Gen. Goeben leaves for Rouen to-morrow.

The Prussian wounded have been sent home. It is expected that the first army corps will march in three days.

A royal commission has condemned the ironclad Water Witch, whose engines worked by hydraulic power. The ironclad Hotspur has been approved by the same board as a coast defense ship, but declared unsuitable for ocean voyages.

FLORENCE, March 4.—It is officially announced that a treaty of commerce with the United States has been signed.

The Minister of War will soon ask Parliament for credit for the manufacture of arms and the construction of defensive works.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Appropriation Bill and Other Matters.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The miscellaneous appropriation bill as finally passed, contains the following items inserted by the Senate last night: Rebuilding lighthouse at Cleveland, Ohio, fifty thousand dollars; authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to increase the compensation of Census Marshals fifty per cent. in his discretion—the entire compensation not to exceed eight dollars per day for the time employed, also a section authorizing the President of the United States to prescribe such rules and regulations for admitting persons into the civil service of the United States as will be best to promote the efficiency thereof.

The Republican Senators hold a caucus on Monday to agree on standing committees of their body.

The High Commission, all the members present, held their second meeting at the Department of State this afternoon. The American members this evening entertained the British members at dinner.

Speaker Blain's Address

WASHINGTON, March 4.—In the House after the announcement that Blaine was duly re-elected Speaker of the 42d Congress, the Speaker was conducted to the Chair and addressed the House as follows

"Gentlemen—The Speakership of the American House of Representatives has always been esteemed an enviable honor,—a re-election to the position carries with it peculiar gratification that it implies approval of past official bearing. For this mark of your confidence, I return thanks and pledge my sincerest devotion to the duties which you call upon me to discharge. Chosen by a party representing the political majority of this House, the Speaker owes faithful allegiance to the principles and policy of that party, but he will fall far below the honorable requirements of his station if he fails to give to the minority its fullest rights under the rules which he is called upon to administer. The successful working of our grand system of government depends on the vigilance of party organization, and the most wholesome legislation which this House produces and perfects is that which results from opposing forces mutually eager and watchful and well balanced in numbers.

The Forty second Congress meets at a period of general content, happiness and prosperity throughout the land. Under a wise administration of the National Government peace reigns in all our borders, and the only misunderstanding with any foreign government is, we may hope, at this moment in progress of an honorable, cordial and lasting adjustment. We are fortunate in meeting at such a time; fortunate in representing such constituencies; fortunate in legislating for such a country. I trust, gentlemen, that our official intercourse may be free from personal asperity, believing all our labors will result eventually in the public good and involving the blessings of Him without whose aid and guidance we labor in vain.

I am now ready to proceed with the further organization of the House, and as the first step thereto I will myself take the oath prescribed by the Constitution and laws.

The oath of office was then administered to the Speaker, who proceeded to administer the same to the members, commencing with those from New England.

Maynard objected to swearing Waddell of North Carolina, as being disqualified from holding office.

Kerr objected to swearing the Tennessee delegation on the ground that the election law of that State had been repealed and they were elected without the sanction of law.

Bingham moved that the Tennessee members be sworn and the credentials referred to the Committee on Elections, which motion was agreed to and they were sworn, three taking the test oath of 1862 and five the modified oath of 1868.

Kerr objected to swearing Mississippi members, as their credentials presented no prima facie evidence of right to seats.

Bingham moved that the Mississippi delegation be sworn and the credentials referred to the Committee on Elections. Agreed to.

Delegates from territories, seven in number, were called and sworn in.

Hooper, Niblack and Schofield, were appointed a committee of the House to join a like committee of the Senate to wait upon the President and inform him that Congress was ready to proceed to business.

Dawes offered a concurrent resolution to adjourn sine die Wednesday, March 8th, at twelve noon. The resolution was agreed to on division —147 to 17.

Kelly called up the case of Waddell, of North Carolina, to whose swearing in Maynard objected, and moved he be sworn. The motion was agreed to and the oath administered.

The House then proceeded to draw for seats, a proceeding attended with the usual uproar and confusion, Dawes being permitted, through courtesy, to select his seat.

At 2 30 P. M. the House adjourned till Tuesday.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 6, 1871.

The "Noblest Roman."

On Saturday the Herald published an article which was introduced thus:

> To-day the term of office to which James K. Kelly was elected by the Legislature of Oregon commences. Just a decade has passed since Joe. Lane—one of the noblest Romans of them all—made the walls of the Senate Chamber ring with his voice still lifted in farewell defense of the constitutional rights of the States. For ten long years the Democratic party of the State of Oregon have had no elected Senator in Congress.

Two or three little matters of history are suggested by these statements. We have some recollection of the nature of the "farewell defense of the Constitutional rights of the States," which "the noblest Roman of them all" uttered in the Senate Chamber; and inasmuch as the Herald, acting in the name of its party, casts a longing, lingering look back to that period, and appears to be happy in the expectation that Senator Kelly will worthily reassert the principles advocated by Senator Lane, it is quite proper for us to revive in the minds of the people a remembrance of the utterances of that "farewell defense." We shall thereby illustrate "Democracy," as understood in Oregon and advocated by the "organ."

That "farewell defense" was made on the 2d March, 1861, when the "noblest Roman" had but two days left to him in the Senate Chamber. It was intended as a reply to Andrew Johnson, who had denounced the course of the secessionists as treason, and declared that they must be met with arms and forced to submission. The "noblest Roman" repudiated this sentiment with indignation. The seceding States had a right to take their course. Jefferson wrote the resolutions of '98, which affirmed the right of secession; would the Senator from Tennessee call Jefferson a traitor? And then the "noblest Roman," the echoes of whose voice from the Senate Chamber still warms the blood and delights the ears of the Herald, even after the lapse of ten years, said:

> Sir, if there is, as I contend, the right of secession, then, whenever a State exercises that right, this Government has no laws in that State to execute, nor has it any property in such State that can be protected by the power of this Government.

We quote the "noblest Roman's" very words. And here is another of the utterances of that "farewell defense," the reverberations of which still steal like sweet music over the Herald's Democratic soul:

> Let me beg the party who are soon to take charge of this Government to let the seceded States alone, and by no means attempt to collect revenue in their ports; that would result in a bloody and terrible war; but, on the contrary, acknowledge the independence of the Confederate States of America, and treat with them as an ally and a friendly nation.

Such was the "farewell defense of the constitutional rights of the States" which the organ, speaking in the name of the Oregon Democracy, delights to remember on the occasion of another Democratic Senator taking the seat once held by the "noblest Roman." This reference to Senator Lane's last utterances in the Senate Chamber is considered by the organ very timely and appropriate when Senator Kelly goes into that Chamber. It is deemed proper and necessary, in order to identify Senator Kelly with the cause and the principles of "pure" Democracy, as embodied by the "noblest Roman."

"For ten long years," says the "organ," [illegible] "the Democratic party of Oregon has had no elected Senator." Is this true? What was Senator Nesmith? He was an "elected Senator" and always called himself a Democrat. But his voice was never lifted in the Senate Chamber in defense of the "constitutional rights" of the Southern States to secede and rebel and plunge the country into war. Therefore, says the Herald, he was no Democrat! He was no "representative of the Democratic party of Oregon," because he was no secessionist, and he did not justify the rebellion. It must be admitted that the Herald is succeeding admirably in maintaining the connection of its party with the great secession movement. It admits the fact and glories in it. And it makes it a test of sound Democracy to-day. We would not think it necessary to recall what Lane said ten years ago, or the position of the Democratic party at that time, were it not that the accepted organ of the Oregon Democracy declares that its party stands now exactly where it stood then.

The Opinion as to Payment of State Warrants.

The opinion of Judge Boise in the case of B. F. Brown vs. the State Treasurer, is published in full in one of the Salem papers. It is quite long, but very clearly written. A brief statement of the leading points on which the opinion was passed is all we can find room for.

The petitioner, B. F. Brown, applied to Judge Boise for an order, or mandamus, directing the State Treasurer to pay certain warrants drawn by the late Secretary of State. It appears that these warrants were drawn during a period while there was no appropriation made by law for the current expenses of the State government. The Treasurer contends that the warrants, when drawn, were wholly unauthorized by law, and that they can be paid only as the Legislature may specially direct. This was the principal point raised in the case. Judge Boise in his opinion fully sustains the position taken by the Treasurer. He lays down the broad principle that warrants so drawn are actually void; but of course the Legislature may examine and pay such of them as it may deem just. In pursuance of this right it appointed a Commission to examine them, and directed the Treasurer to pay such of them as might be attested to him by this Commission. And this is the only method, so far provided, whereby any part of these warrants can be paid.

The petition further claimed that the members of the Commission, being members of the Legislature, were not eligible, and therefore could not pass upon these accounts. Judge Boise holds that they are simply a Committee constituted by the Legislature, and that though the Constitution limits the pay of members of the Legislature to three dollars a day while in session, it is silent on the subject of their pay for any extra labor imposed while not in session. Congress constantly appoints Committees of its own members, for various purposes, and allows them extra compensation and expenses for their services. It is held, therefore, that this commission is legally constituted, and the validity of the act that created it is affirmed.

These are the chief points discussed in the opinion. It is stated that the petitioner will take an appeal to the Supreme Court.

The Democratic Governor of New Jersey has signed the resolution adopted by both Houses of the Legislature of that State to ratify the Fifteenth Amendment. He may as well prepare to be read out of the party.

Death of Judge Stout.

Our city readers already know that Hon. Lansing Stout died on Saturday evening at his residence in this city. He wanted a few days of being forty-three years of age.

The place of his nativity was Watertown, Jefferson county, New York. About the year 1852 he went to California, where he soon appeared in public position. He was a member of the Legislature of that State from Placer county in 1855. His first appearance in Oregon was in the spring of 1857. In 1858 he was elected County Judge of Multnomah county. The following year he was nominated for Congress by the Democratic State Convention. This nomination was considered an innovation by those who had been accustomed to rule that party in Oregon, and many members of the party, to whose support he was entitled by party usage, either refused to support him or came out openly for his opponent. He was, however, elected, and was known as an industrious member of Congress, exhibiting much tact and judgment in the management of his measures. Before his return to Oregon he married a Maryland lady, who, with their four children, survives him. Until 1868 he did not appear again as a candidate for office, though he was at all times an active worker in politics. In June of that year he was elected a member of the State Senate from Multnomah county, which position he still held at the time of his death.

Mr. Stout was known in politics as an active, energetic partisan; he was unbending in his devotion to everything which he considered the interest of his party demanded; yet he was always courteous and free from personal bitterness toward those whom he opposed. We know of no man in the State who has rendered his party as much real service as he. He was too much a politician for his own good, and devoted to party what he might have better devoted to other pursuits and to broader aims. He was usually very cautious in his public utterances, and carefully avoided committing himself to errors into which others less discreet were often led. His natural abilities were much above mediocrity, and his influence in his party was very considerable. He had numerous friends among all classes and parties, and made fewer enemies than most men who engage in public and political life. He will be missed by many, for he occupied a place that cannot now be filled.

The Dalles Mountaineer has a vigorous article in favor of a division of the State. It says the interests of the two sections of the State are diverse in almost every particular. The scheme proposed by the Mountaineer is this: "Give Oregon all west of the Cascade mountains, and lying between California and British Columbia; form a new State or Territory east of the Cascades, out of the territory which would be detached by the Cascade line from Oregon and Washington and a portion of Idaho." Washington Territory, it says, needs the separation as much as Oregon. It illustrates by saying that the eastern and western sections are as "irreconcilable as two cats tied by their tails and thrown over a pole." We have no doubt that Eastern Oregon would vote almost unanimously for a separation, and that the proposition would carry throughout the State by a large majority. The next Legislature, if the matter is agitated, may consent to take the first step in the matter.

The Sheriff of Trinity county (Cal.) has been convicted in the United States Court at San Francisco of violating the laws of the United States and the treaty with China, by levying and collecting special and discriminating taxes from Chinese. The case will be appealed to the United States Supreme Court. In that tribunal the judgment will certainly be affirmed. We may now look for an authoritative exposition of the principles of constitutional law covering this whole subject, and may anticipate that the matter will be set forever at rest, so that low demagogues like the present Governors of California and Oregon, will be forced to stop their blatant mouthings about the "Heathen Chinee."

The Forty Second Congress has gone quietly to work with a good substantial Republican majority. Hopes that were entertained by the opposition of a coalition with the Republican "revenue reformers" have all come to nought. In the full Congress which will assemble in December next, the Republicans will have from thirty to forty majority. This is quite enough. Inasmuch as the executive is thoroughly with us we do not need two-thirds, and so unwieldy a majority is often a positive detriment to a party.

Gov. Grover is busily laying his plans and setting things up, especially in the reliably Democratic counties, to advance his interests as a candidate for the United States Senate next year. He couldn't speak in behalf of his party in the "dark days," and was even ashamed to be seen on the street with its candidate for Governor in 1862; but the success of the party and his hopes for its future success now cause him to "come out strong." He is the chief of those who value party and work for it only as they see a chance for their own advancement.

A re-statement of the terms of peace which Germany has dictated to France indicates that the money subsidy is to be less by one thousand million francs than previously reported. Germany shows magnanimity and moderation in reducing the sum. She is safe enough now from any future attack by France. As the most peaceful nation in Europe is now raised to the first rank of power, and is able to defy attacks, the world has reason to hope for a long period of peace in that quarter.

PERSONAL ITEMS.

Towner Savage, an old citizen of Marion county, who came to Oregon in the year 1846, died a few days since. His age was 70 years.

A noted ex-rebel General, John B. Magruder, died at Houston, Texas, on the 21st February. He is the same man who with seven thousand men kept McClellan back for four weeks at Yorktown, early in 1862.

By a card issued by J. D. Fay, which appears in our telegraphic columns, it will be seen that he denies, in toto, the allegations of infamous conduct which have been made against him, and states that he courts a thorough legal investigation.

A Montana paper says that the Dr. Ream who married a young woman not long ago at Seattle and turned out to be a bilk and swindler, is also a bigamist. He left a wife some months ago at Blackfoot, having deserted her about one week after her confinement.

At Seattle they have most astonishing notions as to what constitutes a "perfect gentleman." Not long since a man named Capt. James M. Selden was arrested at San Francisco on a charge made by his wife that he had committed bigamy by marrying another woman in Washington Territory. To this the Seattle Times responds: "We have known Capt. Selden for years in Alaska and this Territory, and have always found him to be a real and perfect gentleman, and we can't for the life of us ever think he could be guilty of bigamy. We also think that this charge against him is for black mailing purposes, gotten up by some vile woman that he may have kept heretofore as his mistress." Is it the custom of "the real and perfect gentleman" of Alaska and Washington Territory to "keep some vile woman as his mistress?" We trust that this ideal of a "perfect gentleman" belongs only to the Times.

Most of the papers of the State suspend their judgment upon the Fay matter until something more is known about it.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 10, 1871.

OREGON INDIAN WAR CLAIMS.

Mr. Corbett has introduced the following resolution in the Senate:

> Resolved, That the Third Auditor of the Treasury be directed to furnish to the Senate at the next session of Congress a list of all the claims that may be on file in his office incurred in suppressing Indian hostilities in Oregon and Washington Territories, and reported or acted upon by the commission authorized in section eleven of an act making appropriations for certain civil expenses of the Government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1857, approved August 18, 1856, and report how much, if anything, each claimant will be justly entitled to if settled upon the same basis as those reported upon by said commission.

At the suggestion of Mr. Ramsey Mr. Corbett amended the resolution so as to address it to the Secretary of the Treasury, and then the resolution passed unanimously.

All the claims which were audited by Philo Callander, amounting to $13,845 84 are still with the Secretary of State of Oregon. If they, or certified copies of them, were sent by the Governor of Oregon to the 3d Auditor before the report is made, they would be included in this resolution. There is, or ought to be, a contingent fund at the disposal of the Governor or Secretary of Oregon which might be applied in making out a full transcript of the report, and all the affidavits or vouchers accompanying the report of Callander.

Mr. Callander was appointed commissioner to audit this class of claims by the Legislature of Oregon in January, 1856, and on the 1st of December, 1856, he made his report to the Legislature. The abstract of those claims is printed, with names and amount of each claim, in the journal of the session of 1856-7. But no trace of the vouchers are to be found in any of the printed documents. Congress will never pay a cent until these vouchers or certified copies are filed with the 3d Auditor of the Treasury of the United States. It is high time Oregon should at least present all her just claims for the expenses of this war. Let Governor Grover now act promptly and the claimants will stand a good chance to get an appropriation through the 42d Congress.

OREGON.

The Corvallis Gazette learns that Samuel L. Simpson, Esq., will soon take editorial charge of the Salem Statesman.

The $10,000 subsidy for the agricultural works at Salem is nearly all raised. It is expected the erection of the works will soon commence.

The rain does fall on the just and unjust, but it does not fall in equal quantities. For instance, only fifteen miles beyond the Dalles the weather is excessively dry. The ground has not been wet over two inches deep and farmers have the blues.

On the 18th January last a soldier named Shea disappeared from Vancouver. He had with him a considerable sum of money. Last Sunday evening his body was found floating on a duck pond near the Alta House, at that place. No trace of his money was found. A companion who was with him at the time of his disappearance has not been seen since. The question now is, what has become of his companion and what has become of the money?

REV P. S. KNIGHT, Salem ... March 7.

THE SIXTH LECTURE OF THE COURSE WILL be delivered by

REV. P. S. KNIGHT,

Of Salem,

On Tuesday Evening, March 7th,

At 7½ o'clock.

Subject—"A Corrected Estimate of the Eagle Bird."

"Well, thou Shadow bird or Substance—coming from ethereal distance
Where, perchance the Great Departed to the heights of wisdom soar,
Tell me of your curious mission, passing thus before my vision—
Dost thou come from fields Elysian? Art thou skilled in modern lore?
If, to me, thou e'er speak falsely, mayest thou wander evermore
On the 'dark Plutonian shore.'"

It is generally admitted that the American people are given to boasting and braggadocio. The 'lofty flight and the loud scream of our "Eagle Bird" can be witnessed at every public demonstration. Vanity, arrogance, intolerance and unblushing assumption float, as it were, in the very air. In the family, in the neighborhood, in the habits which business begets, in the political affairs of the country, we meet the same spirit of degrading boastfulness; and it is the curse of education in many parts of our land that it excites mere vanity, while it instils no lofty ideas of citizen duty, and no endeavors to attain a noble manhood.

The Rev. Mr. Knight is a man of large and varied reading, an earnest, energetic speaker, and a popular lecturer. He has chosen a subject, unique but practical, and his hearers can depend upon spending the evening both pleasantly and profitably

THE VIEUXTEMPS BROTHERS

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 6 1871.

CITY.

Thou Shalt Not Bear False Witness"—About a week ago we took occasion to speak lightly of people who are always harping about the degeneracy of the present age and, in doing so prefaced our item with a reference to "one of our religious weeklies" Though no allusion was made to it, the Catholic Sentinel considered itself the object of our remarks, and to get even, came back in the issue of last Saturday with a paragraph headed "Loryea's Defender," applying that title to the local reporter of this paper, and expressing sorrow "that a paper could be found in Oregon to even indirectly countenance the monstrosities which the Sentinel had denounced the previous week, thereby implying and insinuating that the local reporter of the OREGONIAN had played the role of "Loryea's Defender" and that the OREGONIAN had "indirectly countenanced the monstrosities," etc

We have a word or two to reply In the first place our item which has so stirred the bile of the Sentinel man, made no defense of Dr Loryea or any other man, it did not apologise for any crime nor any criminal, did not palliate any any vicious person, it made no reference direct or indirect, to anybody, living or dead, except that class of superannuated, garrulous people who are childish and foolish from old age, or [illegible] through excess of self righteous and who have a passion for exalting themselves through whinings and wailings about "the degeneracy of the age"—the superannuated, garrulous whiners and the self righteous wailers being of course the only undegenerate exceptions to the general degeneracy The fashion of these whiners and wailers is to pick up an isolated case of [illegible] and make it the text for declamation on the degeneracy of the age, as though, if an individual shows himself licentious, it is thereby proved that the world has degenerated to a world of debauchees, as though, if a man commits murder or larceny, the world is thereby proved to have degenerated to a world of murderers and thieves as though, if a woman falls from virtue, it is thereby shown that the world has degenerated into a world of prostitutes, as though there had been no licentiousness, murder, thieving, prostitution, etc, till the days when these garrulous self righteous wailers were permitted to be the only salt thereof

In the second place, instead of being "Loryea's Defender" instead of "indirectly countenancing the monstrocities" denounced by the Sentinel, the OREGONIAN emphatically denounced Dr Loryea and his publication, in the very next issue of the daily after the circular appeared, and it has on different occasions since that time, of which the Sentinel man knows The OREGONIAN was the first paper in the State to open on Loryea, except that the Bulletin of the same date also denounced him This the Sentinel man knows This paper has never directly or indirectly defended nor apologized for, nor excused Dr Loryea. This the Sentinel man knows This paper has never defended crime nor criminals, has never countenanced" vice nor the vicious. This the Sentinel man cannot disprove

In the next place, "we are not going to get [illegible] on, but wish to remark, calmly and [illegible] that descending to falsehood, either by direct statement or by inuendo, for the sake of making a point, is very disreputable and not according to the decalogue which says "thou shalt not bear false witness" We are not a preacher, but we must be permitted to remark, further, that the holy [illegible] who fulminates the commandments, church creeds, pious exhortations, etc, against the rest of the world, ought to be, at least, a tolerably fair exemplar of his own moral code

Board of Delegates.—A regular meeting of the Board of Delegates of the Portland Fire Department was held at the Police Court room, Saturday evening March 4th

The President A. B. Hallock, being absent, the Board was called to order by W. H Wetsel,

Present—Messrs W H Wetsel, J H Lyon, A A Williams P D W Hardenberg, C H Marvin Th Huntington, J. A. Thomas, J. H Gilman and Levi Knott

On motion Mr Hardenberg was elected President pro tem.

Record of the proceedings of the previous meeting were read and approved

The Secretary read the list of Standing Committees appointed by the President, as follows

[illegible]—E F Aibright, E D Backenstos and J A Thomas

[illegible] C H Marvin, Levi Knott and Thos [illegible]

[illegible] A A Williams, J H Lyons and Thos [illegible]

[illegible] E D Backenstos, Thos Huntington and A. Williams

[illegible] J Mayer, P D W Hardenberg and J A [illegible]

[illegible] for exempt certificates were received from W H D Joyce, H Stoups and Jas [illegible] referred to the Committee on Certificates

E F Albright tendered his resignation as a [illegible] of the Board, and on motion, it was accepted.

Notice of appeals from M Gray, of Engine Co No 4, and Chauncey Ball of the same company, were [illegible] and referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The [illegible] then adjourned

Fire Alarm —The first fire alarm of the year 1871, in this city occurred about a quarter before eight o clock last evening, proceeding from the Taylor street M. E church. The wood work around the great centre-piece in the auditorium, under which the gas jets are placed for lighting the room, caught fire from the heated reflector, and for a [illegible] there were symptoms of a panic in the congregation, during which time some [illegible] rushed out and gave the alarm Two or three [illegible], however, went aloft and extinguished the fire without difficulty before the [illegible] got on the ground The alarm among the congregation after the first start, soon subsided and most of the people remained in the church, and the services were continued.

Vessel for Oregon —Messrs. McCraken, Merrill & Co have received information from Capt. W A Besse, dated Wareham, Massachusetts, February 11th, to the effect that the vessel he is building, for the route between New York and Portland, Oregon, will be finished about the [illegible] of next month, and will sail immediately, if a part cargo of railroad iron can be obtained.

The [illegible] Land Claim.—The Bulletin says Mr J B David, of the U. S. Department Corps [illegible] has commenced the survey of the [illegible] land claim, south and west of this city, on [illegible] with the owners. We presume this is being done with a view of dividing the property up into lots and blocks as an addition to the city."

Held to Answer —In the Police Court, on Saturday John Foster, Bob Knox and Arthur Barrett were held to answer in the sum of $400, each on the charge of grand larceny. These parties are the "wrestlers" who went through Geo White. White was also held to bail as a witness

Accident.—An employee of the Railroad Company received severe injuries, at Clinton's Point, on Saturday, by the falling of a ladder which he and several others were attempting to raise upon a piledriver He was taken to the company's hospital for surgical treatment

Chinamen Sent to Jail —Three of the Chinamen engaged in kidnapping a woman and stealing the property of her husband, of which mention was made the other day, were held to answer by Justice Moreland, on Saturday, and in default were sent to jail

To be Returned —The bark Jane A. Falkinberg will take as fast freight to Honolulu eighty bags of farina, which was shipped from that port here about a year and a half ago. It has been in bond during that time, there being no sale

Columbia River Freight —The O S N Co have abandoned the classification of freights going up the Columbia, and will hereafter carry charge by ship measurement. No change is made in the rates of down freight

Charge of Seduction.—A colored man named Graham, lately married, was arrested on Saturday afternoon on a charge of seduction. He will have an examination this morning before Judge Lewis.

Masonic Building —The Masonic Building Association invites proposals to furnish materials and doing the work on their proposed hall. Bids will be received till noon of Saturday, the 18th instant.

The Next Steamer —The Oriflamme will sail from San Francisco on Tuesday It may be expected that Mr Holladay will come upon her. He may be expected about Saturday

Poisonous Medicines.

The theory that the virus of disease can be safely counteracted by doses of poison, is false and dangerous Within the last twenty five years, not less than a score of virulent poisons have been added to the repository of the medical profession They are given in small doses, otherwise they would destroy life immediately; but even in minute quantities, they produce, ultimately, very disastrous effects It is unwise and unphilosophical to employ, as remedies, powerful and insidious drugs, which, in subjugating one disease, sow the seeds of another still more unmanageable. None of these terrible medicaments operates with as much directness and certainty upon the causes of disease as Hostetter's Stomache Bitters, a tonic and corrective, without a single deleterious ingredient in its compound Arsenic and quinia are given for intermittents; bromide potassium for nervous disorders, strychnine and prussic acid for general debility mercury in various forms for liver complaint preparations of chloroform and opium for sleeplessness and yet these deadly drugs do not compare, as specifics for the diseases above enumerated, with that wholesome vegetable invigorant and alterative, while they are all so pernicious that it is astonishing any physician should take the responsibility of prescribing them Let invalids, for their own sakes try the Bitters before they resort to the poisons The relief they will experience from a course of the harmless specific, will render a recourse to the unsafe preparations referred to quite unnecessary

Lawyers: Their Clients and Causes.

THE RECENT CONTROVERSY BETWEEN DAVID DUDLEY FIELD AND SAMUEL BOWLES RESTATED.

[From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican]

Though it is true to say of the Field-Bowles correspondence, that it settles nothing of itself, the demonstrations of public opinion and the formal marshaling of the history of the Erie suits, which have speedily followed its publication, are likely forever to dispose of its chief questions. The amenability of lawyers to public opinion for their professional conduct,—the right of the newspapers to challenge and discuss it, cannot possibly be seriously disputed again. Nor can it be longer doubted what the moral judgment of the nation is upon the association of Mr. Field with his especial clients. And as to the foundations of that judgment, if anything were really wanting, not only the testimony of the profession, but the details of the manner in which he has fought their battles and gained their victories in the courts of New York, are coming out so freshly and so formally as to leave no longer room for the pretense that this judgment is a prejudice or a passion. The case on these two points may be said, indeed, to be already made up. The Tribune has published, this week, a history of the Erie litigation for the last year, full of the evidences which Mr. Field challenged. Then there is the opinion of Judge Rosecrans of the Supreme court, in a case recently before him, which abounds in the sharpest judgments upon the manner in which Mr. Field's son and partners have undertaken to obstruct judicial proceedings against their clients, and protect them in their defiance of the rights of their abused stockholders. Such terms as "irrelevant," "impertinent" and "scandalous" are applied to their conduct by this judge and illustrated by the history of the case before him. "Evasion and subterfuge," he says, "have characterized the legal de[illegible] of the Erie managers; and the course [illegible] proceedings in their behalf by their lawyers [illegible] courts "has resulted," he adds, "in [illegible] abiding reproach upon the administration of justice." The testimony on this [illegible] rapidly accumulating, and fast becoming overwhelming. Mr. Field's eagerness for a bill of particulars will soon be abundantly satisfied.

The third point, discussed in the correspondence, the abstract relations of counsel and [illegible] not likely to be so speedily or clearly [illegible]. But the re-hearing of the argument pro and con is certain to make it understood [illegible] the community, and gradually tend, [illegible] a healthier professional opinion [illegible] the subject. Al[illegible] Mr. Field's view [illegible] dispu[illegible] high authority, [illegible] seems to be almost [illegible] present some [illegible] on this point which the correspondence has brought out. The World, [illegible] the Sun in thick-and-thin ad[illegible] Mr. Field's position, puts into the simplest and [illegible] boldest form the only doctrine which can sustain his conduct:—

There is but one positive rule on this subject, namely, that every lawyer must be absolutely free to serve whomsoever he pleases, and to advocate anything that he sees fit, with no personal censure of his motives or his character.

But we find in no other quarter so monstrous a position as this defended. It is a scandal to the profession, indeed, that it should [illegible] its behalf, and we [illegible] believe [illegible] respectable lawyers in the country [illegible] found to adopt it. Though [illegible] pronounces Mr. Bowles's position [illegible] "untenable," it certainly [illegible] encouragement to the Field [illegible] professional degradation and [illegible] it is utterly repudiated by all the testimony before us.

One distinguished lawyer writes: "I think our profession would prefer to state the proposition in this way. Though a lawyer may not be answerable for the character of his clients, or perhaps of his suits, yet he is responsible for the manner in which those suits are conducted and the means used to win them. And in this respect Mr. Field could not stand with our profession, no more than before the public judgment."

Another lawyer [illegible] also a statesman of high position writes: "In my view, the relations of lawyer and client are clear. First, a citizen having a cause or case, civil or criminal, has a right to the services of counsel, that the most favorable aspect of the case, upon the facts and the law, may be presented to the tribunal. But this right [illegible] is not so broad nor so controlling as was asserted by Brougham. It is not the province of counsel to become a criminal himself in his defense of another, nor has he the right to put important public interests in jeopardy, as was maintained [illegible] Brougham. Secondly, if a lawyer takes a continuing retainer applicable to a particular branch of his client's business, or to his business generally, he becomes responsible for his client's conduct within the limits covered by the retainer, the presumption being conclusive that the client acts upon the advice of his counsel, as no properly instructed lawyer would consent to occupy the position of adviser to one who does not ask his opinion, or asking, refuses to be governed by it. How clearly these carefully stated propositions bring Mr. Field into responsibility for Fisk and Gould, need not be pointed out.

Still another eminent publicist sets out his notions of the question with the following application of the principles already quoted: "If Field being general counsel for Fisk, if Fisk did not ask his advice, Field should have retired. If Fisk did ask his advice, and did not follow it, Field should have retired; and if Field counseled Fisk as he has acted, [illegible] responsible for his course, and [illegible] stand [illegible] before the public."

Again, Judge John W. Edmonds is certain[illegible] high authority even with the New York Bar, and in an address to law students, published in 1864, he used this language:—

"There is, however, one drawback to the reputation, if not to the reality, of our integrity [illegible] the indiscriminate advocacy [illegible] our clients' causes, right or wrong. I am aware that some moralists defend the practice, [illegible] that the lawyer, in such emergencies [illegible] as the mere amanuensis [illegible] his mere mouth-piece, uttering [illegible] instead of being personally [illegible] from his training, better able to perform the task, and that he is no further responsible for the integrity of what is said, than is the manufacturer of clothes for the quality of the fabric brought him for that purpose. I will not presume [illegible] dictate to others on this much mooted subject, but I must confess that for my part, I do not assent to this doctrine, and I would [illegible] the profession would repudiate it. I am [illegible] to concede that the lawyer ought not, [illegible] mere suspicion of his client's guilt, to withdraw his aid. But taking the extreme case, which [illegible] sometimes occur, that of the [illegible] confessing his guilt to his counsel, [illegible] cases, it is that I dissent from [illegible] am aware of the severity of [illegible] the view exacts from the profession [illegible] how difficult it will be for the lawyer to act up to it, for it must often [illegible] him retainers when he most requires them."

"An old member of the Bar" writes to [illegible] New York Times thus: "Certainly in his [illegible] his client, the lawyer should not disregard the higher duty which he owes to God [illegible] his fellow-men, and, I may add, no [illegible] with a proper degree of religious or moral sense would so."

It is clear enough, from all this testimony, which might be indefinitely repeated, that the best minds in the profession even theoretically recognize some degree of responsibility in the counsel for his client and his cause; and, practically, this recognition will be found much more complete. For what is the universal practice of good lawyers, and what the universal habit of society in regarding the association of lawyers and clients? Does not the lawyer really accept a responsibility for his client? Does not the community practically impose it? Nearly every lawyer, as a matter of fact, discriminates in his business.

There are very few occupying any position in the profession, that do not turn away frequent cases that are brought to them, simply because they will take neither the professional nor social responsibility of such association. Just as the conscientious and responsible journalist declines a certain class of advertisements, or forbids to his columns certain descriptions of articles; just as the respectable doctor refuses to treat certain descriptions of disease, so the respectable lawyer refuses, as a rule, to take up a certain class of causes, or to identify himself with certain classes of clients. The journalist, the doctor and the lawyer who does not thus discriminate suffers in consequence in the community; he takes a lower place in his profession and in society, he loses in the respect of his fellow men for what he gains in business and in money.

Thus "the Tombs lawyer" is the synonym for a low and disreputable class of the profession in New York city; and not even wealth and culture and political influence, as in a notable case, can redeem a man's character from the contempt and disgrace which follows that class of business. Here at home, we have a striking illustration of the social and professional discredit that are inseparable from the same class of clients and of causes. The ablest member of our local bar identifies himself as counsel with all grades of criminals. The pests of society are emboldened in their career by the certainty that their money can command his effective services. But the community are as quick as they to recognize the fact, and he suffers, as he deserves to suffer, in character and influence in consequence. No one knows and respects this state of things, practically, more than Mr. Field himself. He would turn with loathing from the applications of murderers, adulterers, and sneak-thieves to defend them in the New York courts. "Is thy servant a dog that he should do this thing." And we give him the credit of believing that, if he had foreseen the judgment of his friends and the community upon his association with Fisk & Co., he would have hesitated before joining hands with them in their audacious raid upon the rights of property and the integrity of business morals. But neither his own moral sense, nor his perception of the moral sense of the community, were keen enough to see through the veil that large fees hung over his soul.

Mr. Choate, himself, great as he was, and pure as he was in unselfishness and in personal character, did not escape the responsibility of his clients and their causes. Many of his professional associations and acts were a discredit to him while living, and are a blot upon his memory, dead. For even his friends cannot conceal the evidence that his readiness to assume the defense of the most desperate criminals, and the bold and, sometimes, unscrupulous manner with which he sought their acquittal, became even an encouragement to crime, and was surely an injury to the best interests of the community. The notable story of the reply made to him by a witness, in the case of mutiny and murder on the high seas, compressed the whole of his conduct into a phrase, and justified the public judgment against him. The witness was stating how he resisted the arguments of the prisoner to join him in the crime, giving, among other objections, that they would be sure to be found out and punished for it. "What was the reply of the prisoner," (his client), "to this?" asked Mr. Choate. "Why, he said no matter for that, we could hire Mr. Choate to defend us, and he would get us off even if the blood was found in our boots."

The application of this illustration to Mr. Field's associations with Fisk and Gould is obvious and complete. Their knowledge that his services were at their disposal, and their belief that with his help, before judges whom it is obvious they had also corrupted, they could be protected in their assumptions, have clearly emboldened them to continue and enlarge their audacities. Not only by the direct aid which he has given them, but by the encouragement that his subserviency to their interests has inspired, is he responsible for their conduct. The world recognizes the character and influence of these relations and condemns them. The practice, if not the theory, of the profession condemns them. And, reading between the lines of his late vehement defense, it easy to see that his own conscience is beginning to question, and condemn them. No man who, after this fashion, puts his services at the disposal of wrong-doers, and debts and encourages the perpetration of any great crime, can escape sharing the responsibility or receiving the condemnatory judgment of the community.

Whether, therefore, the doctrine which The Republican has long maintained that a "lawyer is responsible, in a decided degree, for the character of his clients and the character of the suits which he undertakes in their behalf," is theoretically a sound one, it is practically, the true and accepted one. And the enlarged discussion which the subject is receiving is likely, at least, to bring the average public mind, as well as all the better elements of the profession, to an agreement with Mr. Bowles's broader declarations in his last letter to the younger Field: "A lawyer has his rights as a lawyer. They may, and often do, justify him, and even require him to represent the criminal whom he believes guilty, or the civil cause which he believes wrong. It is due to that criminal or to that cause, that whatever mitigating circumstances there may be in the case, should be known and allowed. But, first, in accepting this position, and next, in discharging it, he takes a responsibility to the public, on which it may arraign, dispute and judge him." Given this, and the whole question of the amenability of the profession is yielded. Given this, and Mr. Field and his friends have no room left to stand upon in dispute of the adverse judgment of the community.
